Dear Nana

Congratulations on co-head cheer leaders. I hope to work out ok. Well, Nana, honey, I guess I have criticized you. I rather agree concerning years "romances" but that isn't the most important side of you. That is only part of you - the photo cannot be deleted that you have a beautiful personality. That personality not only makes - you combine it with likeable person. I at combine it with your talents and you are on top - both cheerleader. May be I shouldn't say I but you're the best as far as go. I hope you'll forget anything bad that has gone between us because I want to remember you as my friend -- ok. I envy you next year because you know how to lead cheerleading.

Love,

Ruth

Dear Nana
To a very vibrant cheerleader who will lead a very able squad with great potentials. I hope you don't have too many behind them. I hope you don't have too many trouble makers.
Good Luck

Foreword

In 1860, a man with an idea . . . set into motion one of the most dynamic forces ever to affect the progress of the American way of life—the Pony Express. The Pony Express, which brought the Atlantic and Pacific coasts within ten days of each other, became the first rapid transit for mail across the continent. Starting in Saint Joseph, Missouri, and ending in Sacramento, California, riders carried the mail by horseback across fertile plains and rugged mountains, in storms and sunshine, through green forests and dry Indian territory. The Pony Express rider was a pioneer in communication—a thought-carrier—a hero, both sung and unsung.

Walt Whitman so ably captured the drama and excitement of pioneering in his poem "Pioneers! O Pioneers!"

"These are of us, they are with us,
All for primal needed work, while the followers
there in embryo wait behind,
We today's procession heading, we the route for travel clearing Pioneers! O Pioneers!"

"Has the night descended?
Was the road of late so toilsome? did we stop discouraged nodding on our way?
Yet a passing hour I yield you in your tracks to pause oblivious,
Pioneers! O Pioneers!"

As long as there are schools like Central, the "roar of night" has not "descended". The way may be discouraged, but we continue to carry the message.

As we prepare to send the message of education the "thought rider" must ready his mount.

"It is time! Come ride with me!"

Dear Tana,

Just think this year is about over and next year we'll be seniors. How can that be possible. I'm sure next year will be just a ball.

Lots of luck to a very sweet and wonderful girl who deserves it, but doesn't need it.

Our Central High

Dear Tana,
 This is Central High! My school—"whose ideals and traditions are worthy of the loyalty of all." The spirit which the pledge to Central invokes is captured in the splendor of the wonderful building in which it is housed.

I wish you the best of luck in your next year at Central. You are really a sweet girl and I hope you have a lot of fun and success.
 Good luck

For thirty years this building has stood throughout the day and night, withstanding both the storms of snow and rain and the rays of radiant sunshine.
 Just as the perils of weather could not stop the riders of the Pony Express, so the perils of today cannot stop the instructors from delivering the vital message of education.

*TANA
Keep you're a great girl!
Good Luck

*Tana, has been
It a great pleasure knowing you these past years.
I hope you will always remain as nice and sweet and happy as to a great gal and a real cheerleader.

The Guiding Light of Education

The organization of the Ponymen was a stimulus to progress. Does not our school serve in the same way? As we look down her halls, we think about the days we have spent here learning and working toward our goal—success. The students Central has graduated have made her very proud. The graduates of this year will try to uphold the fine standards previously established. Yes, students, this is our school. Be proud of her, love her, and uphold her laws, for no school will give as much in return as our Central High.

Dear Tana
Lots of love to a real sweet and cute girl. You are a terrific cheerleader
Best wishes

Centralites are privileged to have a wide variety from which to choose in the field of language arts. What are the language arts? The term applies to those subjects which aid a student in expressing himself more clearly. Among these subjects are the required English courses all students take during freshman, sophomore, and junior years. Elective courses in the language arts include speech, drama, journalism, English literature, and foreign languages. Speech is a course which develops a student's ability in public speaking. Drama is a course which assists a student in developing his personality through the dramatic arts. Journalism is a captivating language art in which the student spends one semester learning how to publish a newspaper and another semester in the actual publication of the school paper, The Outlook.

Included in the foreign languages are Spanish, French, and Latin. A student may take two years in any of these languages. English literature, a course which is extremely helpful to students who plan to attend college, has long been offered at Central. Experience in doing research, in critical reading, and in writing, is attained in this course.

The many subjects included in language arts are not easy, but any student who seriously applies himself in any of these courses will find the experience both pleasurable and profitable.

Indians Learn

A panel discussion provides interest for an enthusiastic freshman English class.

Gary Gilkerson gives a book report, a vital part of the English curriculum, for his classmates in sophomore English.

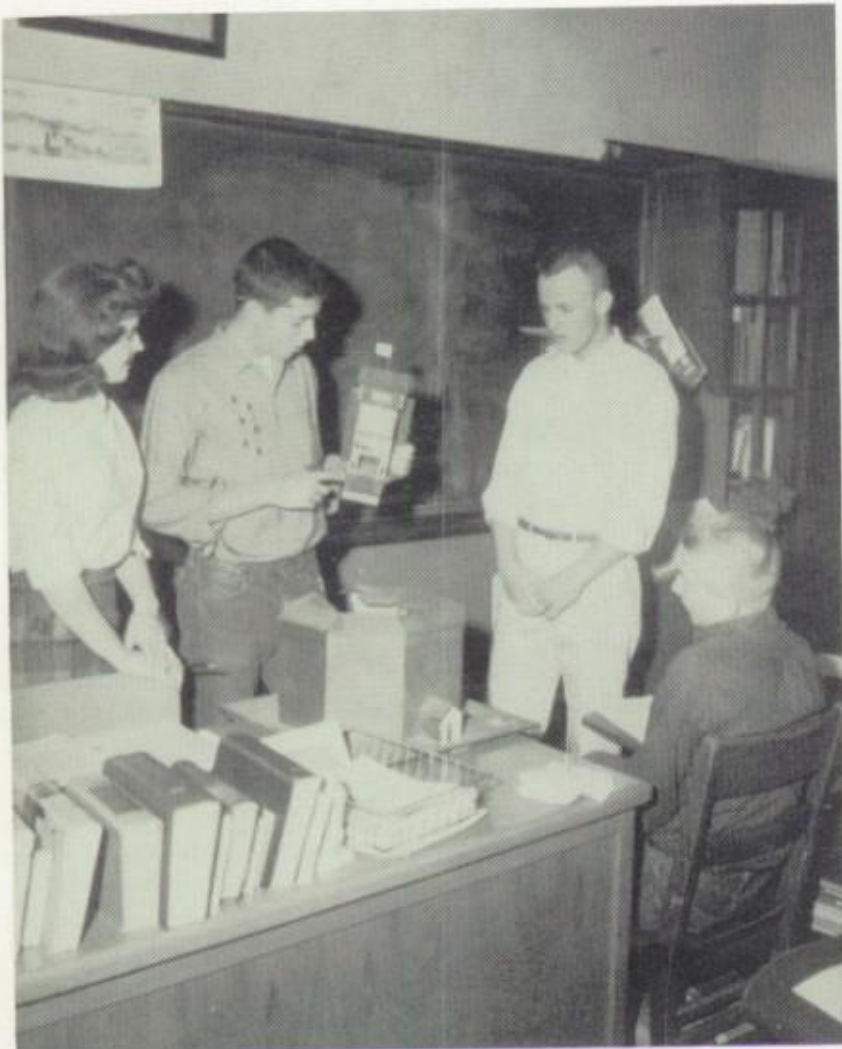

Learning the correct spelling, pronunciation, and usage of words is important for Paula Evans and Tom Maugh, junior English students.

Mrs. Virginia Frazier aids Sharon Baughman and Bill Seever in the correct usage of the dictionary during senior English.

Syntax and Composition

A model of the Globe theater of Shakespeare's day is examined by Janet Webster, Alan Stine, and Larry Grimes.

Carol Elliot, Jon Pitluck, Roger Gaddis, and Betty Kirbey examine some products of native crafts during Spanish class.

Sally Fiske, Linda Dillard, and Ronnie Sontheimer present a skit for their drama class.

Centralites Apply Acting Techniques

Painting, papering, pasting, lighting, and sound effects, are some of the behind the scenes efforts involved in the presentation of the All-School play.

Spotlight on "Green Valley"

Tobias J. Everheel, played by Steve Keener, pleads for his life as the descendants prepare to hang him for his misdeeds.

"What do you mean the fuel pump is missing?" says Everheel to Tinker Smith played by Alan Schindler.

"Prim, did you take that fuel pump?" Eldon Berry, portrayed by Bob Sale, asks Janet Webster.

The displaced settlers pause for a rest on Eldon Berry's doorstep as they leave their ancestors' home.

Lookouts Scout

Twice a month the students receive a synopsis of the activities of Central—The Outlook. It is a window designed to allow the reading public to observe the functions of the school.

Ruth Goff and Burton Dunbar, first semester, and Wickie Jackson and Miles Morrison, second semester, served as editors of the Outlook under the direction of Mrs. Florence McCoy.

For the OUTLOOK

With their help the journalism students succeeded in giving Central readers an excellent paper.

With a semester of straight journalism behind them, the students put into practical use during second semester the theories presented them. Interviewing important people, gathering newsy items, writing follow-ups on important events, doing "paste-ups," reading copy, and selling ads are a few of the facets involved in "putting out" a paper.

So Much To Do-

One of the most prized possessions a student obtains from school life is the Wakitan. The Wakitan serves as a bound scrapbook of another year at school, another book of memories.

Sponsored by Mr. Linus Dowell and edited by Phyllis Johnson and Caroline Martin, the Wakitan patrol moves forward. Every day, sixth period, the Wakitan office begins to hum with activity. Layout mats are designed and drawn by Judy Wells and her committee; pictures are cropped and marked for identification; and copy is written, checked, and typed. In addition to these basics of journalistic preparation for a yearbook, there are countless other errands to be run. Teachers are notified for picture-taking, announcements are prepared for the bulletins, and run-downs on copy and pictures are made.

Tennyson wrote: "So many worlds, so much to do. So little done, such things to be." These words "hit home" for the Wakitan Board as they have worked diligently and unceasingly to make the 1960 Wakitan a proud possession of each Centralite.

People and Places Are Interesting

History is the image of the past created by the play of the imagination and intellect on the materials left by earlier generations.

From the variety of subjects available to the students at Central, a selection must inevitably be made. Civics, ancient history, world history, modern history, United States history, geography, American government, economics, psychology, sociology, and marriage and family living are offered. Modern history and geography are two new courses made available this year. Miss Hester DeNeen heads the Social Science department.

What's making history today? Whatever it is, the Forum Club will be discussing current affairs on the local, national, and international level. The club, sponsored by Miss Ruth Spangberg and Mr. Arthur Burrowes, has interesting discussions led by guest speakers. Membership is limited to juniors and seniors who pass a general social science test, maintain an "S" average in social science, and have the recommendation of a social science teacher.

American labor is the subject of Judy Boner and Ethel Kirbey's discussion in civics.

Nancy Fenner, Louise Farmer, and Jack Brahler discuss the effects of European wars on world history.

In U.S. History, Marcia Katcher, Margo Wilkinson, and Cindy Schmaltz discuss the United States-Russian relations.

Indians Scout for News

Representative Lawrence Pilgram explains his bill to Speaker of the House Bob Newman.

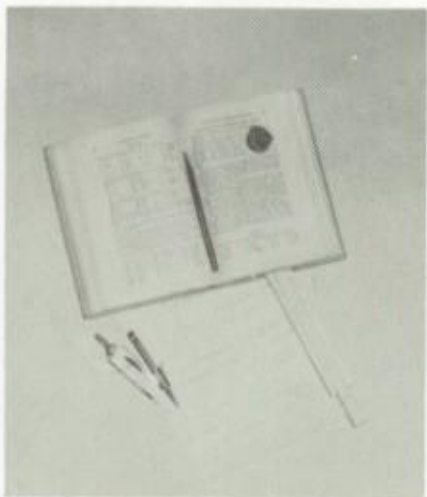

Steve Keener and Mrs. Graham engage in a Freud versus Fromm debate during psychology.

Fascinating beyond a doubt, the courses of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and general math make us more conscious and appreciative of the everyday world about us. Strengthening, challenging, broadening the mind to its fullest (in mathematical terms to the nth degree), high school mathematics may be looked upon as the foundation and the stepping-stone to wonderful revelations and experiences.

Central's chapter of Mu Alpha Theta, a national mathematics club, was presented with a charter in 1958. Sponsored by Mr. Oscar Kirschner, the members meet twice monthly to discuss mathematical structure and peculiarities.

Sherri Berns explains a first-year algebra problem while Walter Folks watches.

Mind Over Matter In Math

In geometry, Mary McWilliams proves to Ronnie Martin and Douglas Dunham that angle "P" is bisected.

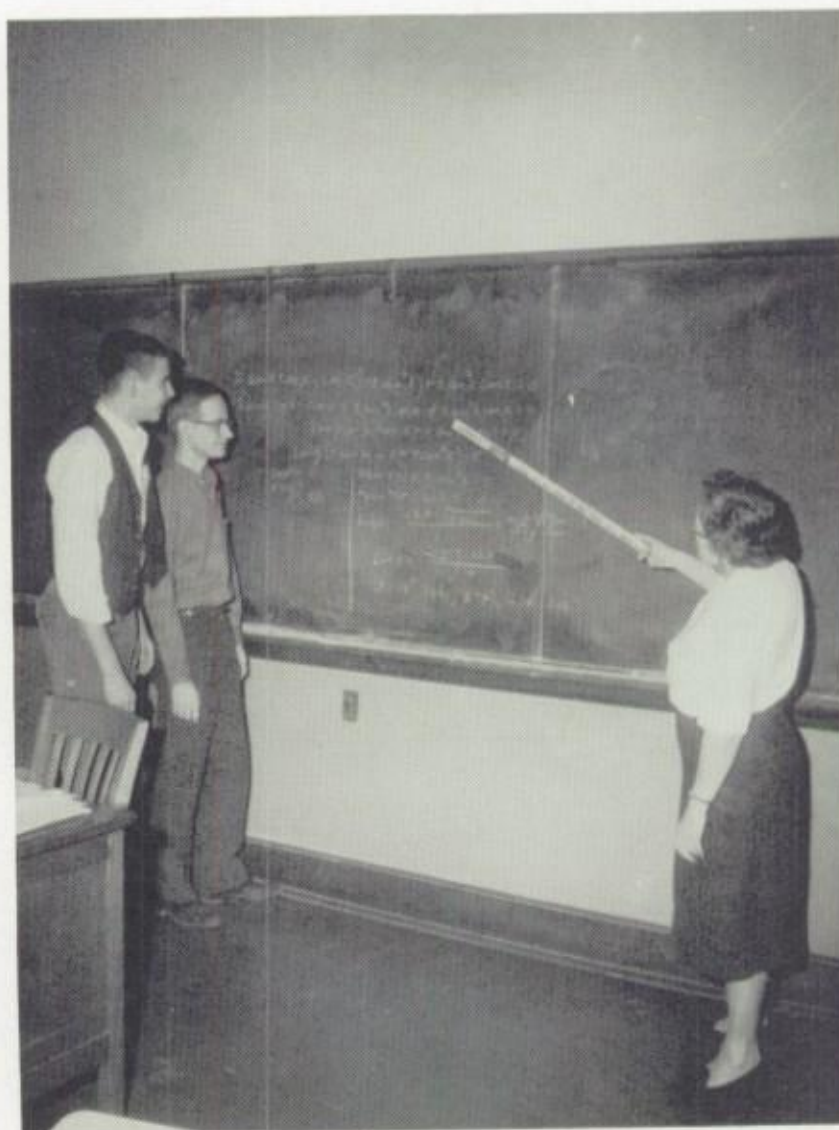

Mr. Hayes and his general math class watch Sharon Gillette and Jocelyn Kistler find the square root of a problem.

John Osgood solves a quadratic equation for Rocky Maugh and his fourth period second-year algebra class.

Miss Vera Tilson explains a trigometric equation to Bob Coburn and Tom Kabele.

Blast off, fall-out, in orbit, collision course! These are just a few of the hundreds of brand new words which have taken such fundamental parts in our language. This somewhat terrifying—yet fascinating time we live in today is surely the age of science.

It is a challenging age, to be sure, but Central High School is prepared to meet that challenge successfully, with a strong science department, well organized and smoothly run.

Central's Science Club is more than a social organization; it is a molders of the future scientists. Since its foundation in 1948, it has grown in membership and influence. Today, it is one of the largest clubs at Central. Under the guidance of Miss Patricia Rice, it sponsors such activities as the Annual Science Fair, which brings the wonders of science to the attention of every student at Central High. The club makes an annual trip to a nearby place of interest.

The action of the VandeGraff generator provides interest for Mr. Carroll, Jeff Hemstock, Nancy Martin, and Diana Chitwood.

Scientists In the Making

Mr. Carroll supervises as general science students, Herman Nordstrom, Helen Porter, and Gary Townsend test a galvanometer.

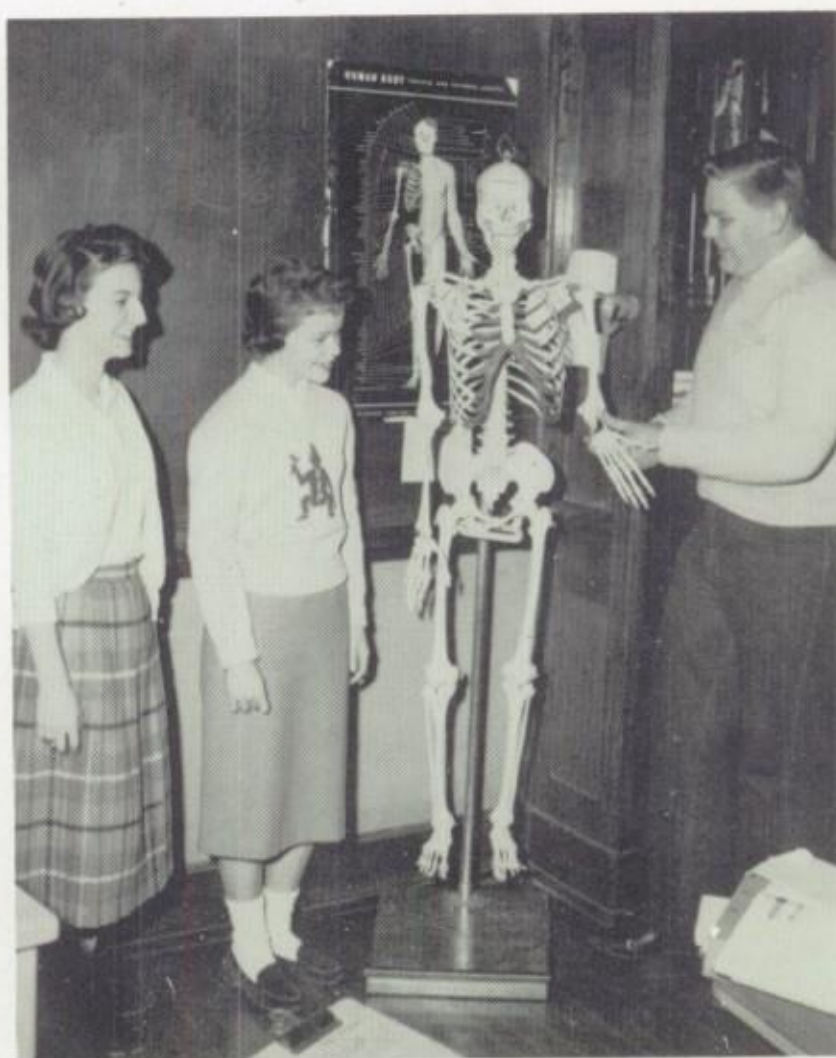

Mike Brown, Miss Rice, Nina Cavey, and Cherri Grimes examine the freshwater life contained in the aquarium.

Man Conquers Matter

Physics students, Susy Sleezer, Joan Turner, and Mel Henry, watch as classmates Diane White and Bob Newton peer into microscopes.

Terry McKay, Linda Waller and Bob McQuire, health students, examine the human skeleton.

A Sound Foundation for Business Success

These students advance to smooth, efficient typing while preparing themselves for a future life in the business world.

One of the most practical and rewarding fields of education offered in a high school curriculum is that of Commerce. The courses included in the Commerce department prepare students for careers in secretarial work and business, as well as giving practical skills for the college-bound.

The familiar words "prepare to take a 10-minute timed writing" are typical of the instructions given in typing classes. Besides speed writings, students learn the functions of the many parts of the typewriter; how to type business letters and business forms; and the correct manuscript form for themes. Commerce "majors" receive, in general business, the rudiments for a sound foundation of business practices; they puzzle over debits and assets in bookkeeping; they take dictation and figure transcription speed in shorthand; they acquaint themselves with the operation of other business office machines in business English; and they keep up-to-date with daily math problems in business arithmetic.

All in all, the students leave Central's Commerce Department well prepared for a future in business and with necessary skills for college work.

Carol McGrew dictates to her shorthand class as it strives to increase the speed on shorthand takes.

Martha Geha, Linda Imm, and Penny Batley familiarize themselves with modern business machines.

What's Cooking?

The Homemaking Department prepares girls for roles as future homemakers. In the courses of Homemaking I and II girls learn the fundamentals of sewing and cooking. During the school year the classes cook, plan meals, study interior decorating, sew practical garments, and learn the essentials of child care.

The Homemaking II class of 30 girls organizes and handles a great deal of the extra work of the department's activities. The girls in this group serve refreshments at faculty meetings, select a gift for the school, and plan the occasion when students' parents visit the department to view the work of the classes.

This spring the classes held a style show displaying some of the near-professional sewing the girls had done. It was a fitting climax to a wonderful year in Home Economics.

After many days of earnest work, the boys in wood shop proudly display the results.

The courses of wood shop, metal shop, and mechanical drawing are included in the industrial art's curriculum offered at Central.

After learning the distinct art of constructing many varied objects, the students are encouraged to build articles which will be useful in their own homes and which will further enable them to apply the knowledge gained from these classes in later life. From these two classes come excellent pieces of furniture and numerous tools.

The mechanical drawing classes offer the students a brief glance into more advanced studies. It is of inestimable value to those who plan to enter the field of engineering.

The industrial arts are extremely important and useful to any student wishing to learn practical lessons.

Skilled Hands Build for the Future

These fascinated boys in the drafting class are planning the homes of the future.

Skilled hands are the tools with which Charles Houser, Bill Hill, and Vernon Frazee will shape the future.

Every student must be able to find a vocation which will make him happy, which will enable him to use his talents to the fullest, and which will help him to succeed. Central High School offers a program which is well adapted to the needs and interests of the students.

Through Hillyards Vocational School, boys can learn about auto mechanics, radio and television repair, and printing.

Co-operative Occupational Education (COE) affords the chance for students to learn and master salesmanship both in school and on the job.

These courses provide a proving ground for future years of clerical and mechanical occupations.

Judy Frazier, a C. O. E. student working at Grant's Department Store, goes about her job with a smile.

Service With a Smile

Kenny Miller and Glen Miller inspect a motor as part of their training at Hillyard's Vocational School.

Paul VanBuskirk, Alan Donaldson, Bob Kennard, and Don Conant examine equipment in radio and T.V. class.

To Central's many avid young readers the library is a haven of enjoyment. Magazines, books, and reference materials are readily available to those who want to do outside pleasure reading. Biographies and histories are provided for social science students to enable them to prepare the best possible reports. A large selection of natural science books is kept for health, biology, and general science classes so that they may better visualize diagrams and charts. For those who enjoy straight fiction the library has no end. Stories range from the earliest English novel to Zane Grey's Riders of the Purple Sage.

The library staff, composed of able young Central-ites, binds worn books, sends notices for overdue cards, checks and issues books, and in general keeps the library in smooth running order.

Carrie McGaughy and Peggy Conrad receive literary assistance from Jean and Judy Bonham.

Task Forces Around Central

CUSTODIANS—Mr. Ed Swoboda, Mr. Henry Chatfield, Mr. Al Field.

When young girls enter Central in their freshman year, they are invited to attend an assembly, the purpose of which is to present to them the idea of working together and serving others. Small clubs are formed, the first meetings are held, and the spirit of "Y-Teenism" is once again set into motion.

During the ensuing four years, these groups engage in many worth-while activities. Work Day is held once each year to provide funds for the annual Cinderella Ball. Service projects are earnestly pursued. These include programs for the aged and treats for the children's wards in local hospitals.

As senior girls prepare to graduate, they realize that these clubs have taught them the meaning of service to their fellow man.

Inner-club Council, the elective governing body of the Y-Teens, meets one Thursday a month at the YWCA to discuss future projects.

The expression of individual talent or talents is best fulfilled through the curriculum of Fine Arts. A student possessing any talents in music or art can avail himself of any of the courses in this area.

In the department of vocal music the subjects of Chorus, Glee Club, and Mixed Choir are taught by Mr. Byron Myers. Concert Choir and Inner Choir are taught by Mr. Marvin Gench. The Chorale, consisting of eighteen Inner Choir members, was organized this year.

If one enjoys the color and thrill of a parade, the excitement and spirit of a marching band, or the rousing strains of a fast, peppy march, the Central band is the place for him. Under the direction of Mr. Allan Bing, the band performs for parades, football and basketball games, and assemblies. The pep band plays for all pep assemblies and provides added enthusiasm.

Mr. James Hill and Mrs. Rolande Pinkerton are responsible for art instruction. The basics of sketching, abstract design, and sculpturing are included in the four years of art offered at Central. Posters for all coming and current events are supplied by the art classes. An exhibit of the students' work is held each year and a "Master Craftsman" is chosen.

Jocelyn Kistler, Morie Dunn, and David Spiek work on models of their "Dream Houses," a 1960 art class project.

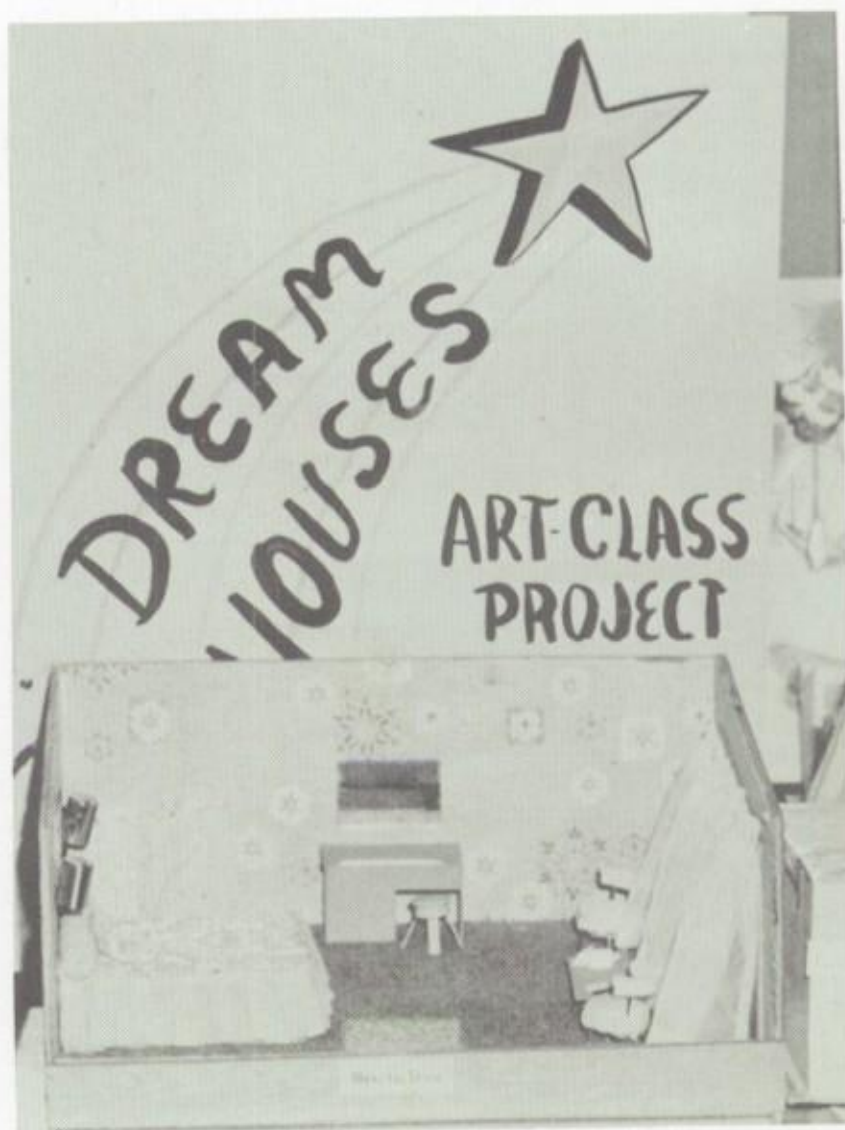

Mary Poland poses as art students attempt a "sketch from life" drawing.

Mrs. Pinkerton supervises the preliminary sketches of "Dream Houses" by Larry Buck and Jack Frost.

The completed project, "Dream Houses" by advanced art classes, is displayed in the main hall.

GAA Encourages Sportsmanship

Sponsor: Mrs. Gladys Baker.

President: Faye Jeffries.

From soccer to softball, the G.A.A. enables girls of Central to develop the ideals of good sportsmanship by offering various sports for participation. Throughout the school year, the five hundred members are active in sports such as volleyball, swimming, archery, and bowling. Through intra-mural tournaments, they learn individual and team play.

Besides providing sports activities, G.A.A. sponsors a welcoming tea for freshman girls, holds a banquet for both the twenty-seven board members and all "C" girls, compiles the annual Student Directory, and holds a play-day to which athletic clubs from neighboring schools are invited. It also supervises the Basketball Queen Coronation and the concessions at the Regional Basketball Tournament.

This year, as a special project, G.A.A. presented to the student body fifty yards of blue velvet to be used in future queen coronations.

The entire girls' physical education department is truly grateful to Mrs. Gladys Baker for her endless patience and able guidance of the girls of Central.

A "C" letter is the first award to be received by a G.A.A. girl. To receive a letter, the girl must acquire 1800 points, a feat which can be accomplished by the end of her sophomore year.

A "C" pin is the mark of outstanding effort and achievement in the field of intra-mural sports. After much running, batting, jumping, and throwing, a girl may accumulate the 2800 points necessary to be granted the "C" pin.

A G.A.A. trophy is the highest goal which can be achieved by a G.A.A. member. After receiving the "C" letter and "C" pin, a few ambitious girls go on to receive their trophies. This is accomplished by many countless hours of sports participation, refereeing, scorekeeping, and other activities.

Volleyball provides fun and excitement for these girls in GAA during gym class.

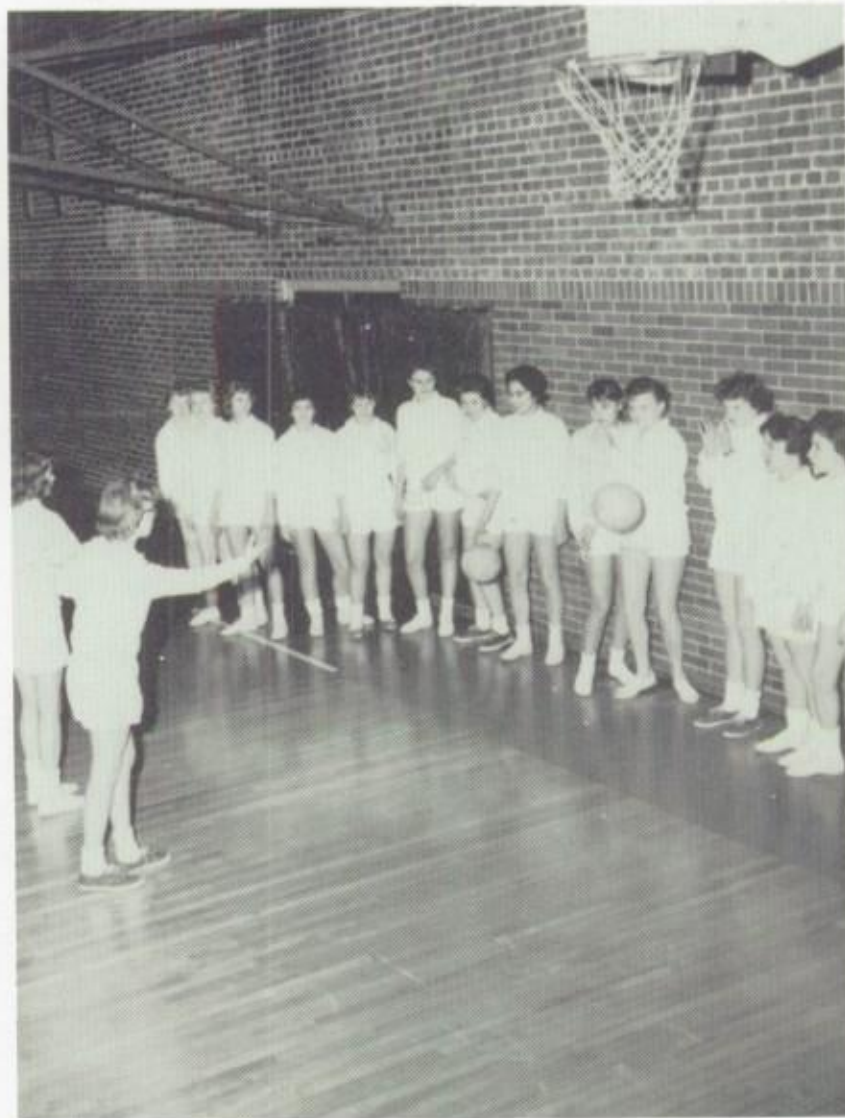

Ping pong is another tense and exciting game which is enjoyed by the girls in the gym classes.

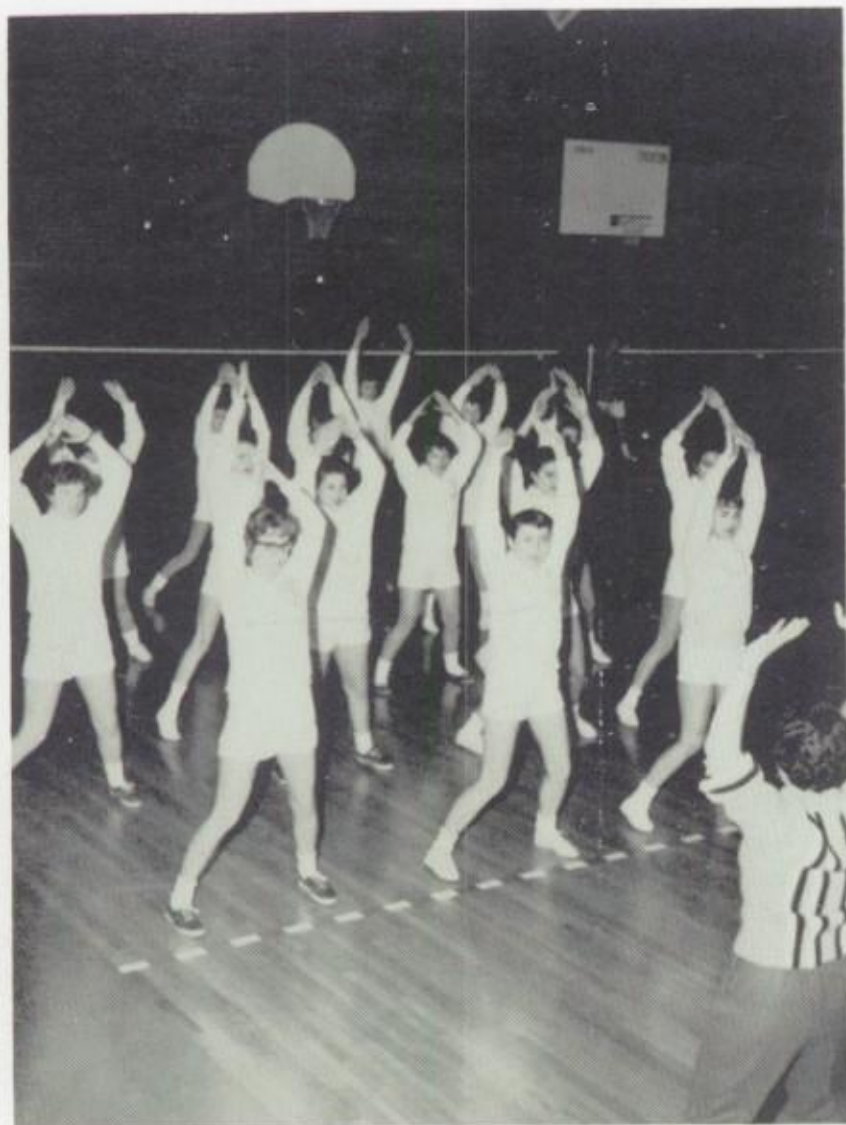

Badminton, a game similar to tennis, is a favorite sport among the girls in gym class.

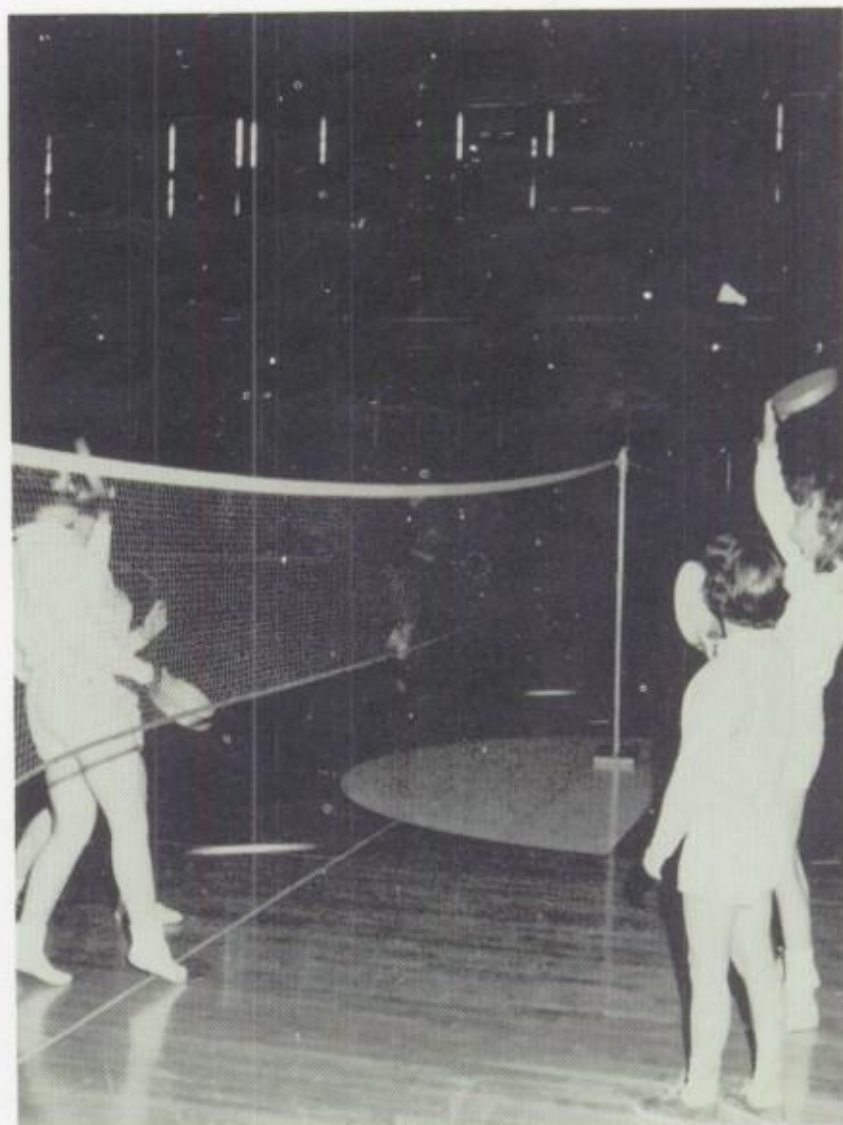

Girls in the gym classes enjoy an occasional game of bombardment to increase competition among teammates.

Rigorous and Vigorous

Mrs. Baker leads the girls in callisthenics, one of the daily practices in all gym classes.

These four girls demonstrate tambourella, a version of badminton, which was introduced only a few years ago.

Tribe's Chiefs Discuss Their Tactics

Football is the classic autumn sport, giving the fall, in fact, a sort of soul. At Central this is surely true. Year after year the Indians have turned out a winning tribe, and this year was no exception, with its season's record of 5 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie.

The Indians launched the season with a flourish by taking their fifth straight city Jamboree and later stopping Van Horn completely to win their first regular game. After tying a grisly death struggle with Christian Brothers, and losing a hard-fought battle to Atchison, the Indians showed strength and ability in taking their next four games against Lafayette, Savannah, Benton, and William Chrisman. Central was then set back by North Kansas City, traditionally her strongest adversary, in a particularly hurting contest, and ended the season on an unlucky Friday the thirteenth by falling to Leavenworth.

Despite the occasional setbacks, overall it was a winning season. Central tied for the city championship and retained second place in the Pony Express Conference. Five boys, Bill Kirkpatrick, Dick Nixon, Larry Grimes, Jim Burnham, and David Jones made the all-city team, and four more, Dennis Brown, Dan Deatherage, Buddy Brower, and Vernon Miller made the second team.

Moreover, the season's games were well-played, exciting, and interesting. Centralites thoroughly enjoyed it, which is, after all, the most important thing.

Varsity Coach John Gibson, and Coaches Don Francis, Howard Iba, Milton Day, Gus Sarris, Jewell Robinson, and Jack Hammock deserve the humble thanks of all Centralites as well as varsity, reserve, and freshman players for doing coaching jobs and doing them unquestionably well.

Brains Behind the Brawn

For the Central Indians, the 1959-60 season seemed to be a season of close scoring games. Stand-outs include edging out Northtown by one point and the homecoming thriller against William Chrisman. It took superior playing to finish the season with 13 wins and 7 losses.

The Indians gave their cheering school second place positions in the North Kansas City tournament, The Christian Brothers tournament, and the Regional tournament. The team took third in the Pony Express Conference and was the unchallenged champion of the city.

Individually, Dennis Brown and Manly Tubbs made the first all-city team and Dick Nixon was named to the second. Watson Brower, Bob Newman, Steve Nikes, Mike Wiehl, and Byron Brown received honorable mention.

The 1959-60 basketball season for Central is now history. But there is a certain pride in completing a thing successfully and in doing it well. Ask the squad!

Track, more than any other athletic endeavor, has given man the best opportunity to pit himself against his natural limitations. It allows an individual to overcome the frailties of his body if he is willing and able.

Its fourteen different events include so wide a range that almost everybody can be successful in one field or another. They include such contests as the broad jump, low hurdle, high jump, running events, the shot put, and the discus throw.

A large number of boys took part in the school's 1959 season. Led by Coach Gibson, and Coaches Day, Francis, and Robinson, it was most successful.

Dennis Brown was one of the outstanding trackmen honored by making the all-state team.

The C-Men Fight for Central

The "C" Club is an honor organization formed to give special recognition to all boys who have gained a letter in at least one major sport. This year it has been headed by officers Dick Nixon, Tom Snargrass, and David Jones. It has successfully undertaken its yearly money-making project, the selling of ballpoint pens, and has ended a worthwhile season with its annual banquet at the Hotel Robidoux.

“Ready-O-

“We want a touchdown . . . We want a buck-buck-bucket . . . When the Indians go marching in . . .” These are the familiar yells heard at the games and pep assemblies during the football and basketball seasons.

Headed by Ruth Goff, the cheerleaders spend much time after school and on Saturdays perfecting their motions and working on new yells. To encourage pep, enthusiasm, and good sportsmanship, they present weekly pep assemblies and skits. The varsity cheerleaders lead the student body in yells at pep assemblies and at all varsity games.

The cheerleaders are sponsored by Mrs. Colleen Wilmes and Miss Nancy Adle.

HEAD RESERVE CHEERLEADER
—Gail Turner.

Dear Fana,
It sure has been fun
being with you in cheerleading and all. Best wishes to a favorite person.
Love,
Janie Nelson

Let's Go!"

The reserve cheerleaders attend all reserve games and lead the reserve pep squad in cheers. Under the direction of Gail Turner, the reserve cheerleaders give added pep by stationing themselves throughout the auditorium to encourage more student participation.

The cheerleaders bought their new blue skirts and sweaters this year with the money they received from sponsoring a cheerleading clinic.

If the reserve cheerleaders are re-elected in the spring try-outs, they will become the varsity cheerleaders for the next year.

Tryouts for cheerleader are held in the spring, after which the student body votes to elect the new reserve cheerleaders.

Yea, Blue! Yea, White!

You're not seeing double, it's just Brian Taylor perfecting his war-dance before pep assembly.

The cheering squad—what Centralite will ever be able to forget it? Composed of the peppy pep squad and the cheerworthy cheerleaders, our girls in uniform have created for themselves a fundamental place in the life of Central High School.

The pep squad is probably the most completely distributed—at least from the female standpoint—of any organized school group. It divides itself into a reserve pep squad made up of freshmen and sophomore girls, and a varsity pep squad of junior and senior girls. Its membership totals about 330—quite a number of girls!

Yea, Team! Fight! Fight!

The cheerleaders are the ones who, through their leadership and direction of the pep squad, make the big noise possible. Head cheerleader Ruth Goff and varsity cheerleader Roz Young, together with the reserve cheerleader have a terrifically hard job to do, but they pitch in with all their might and do it, as do all the members of Central's "cheer squad."

Roz Young lets go with an enthusiastic jump after pep assembly.

RIFLE TEAM—Back Row: Kenneth Howard, Mike Brown, Butch Golden, Jim Kapp, Larry Shelley, John McCrosky, Rob-

Sharpshooters for Central

A boy in the Reserve Officers Training Corps finds that he is a member of the "chain of command," a linking of men which runs from him to the President of the United States. He receives a regulation army uniform and a caliber M-1 rifle, for which he is held responsible.

Several hundred boys are enrolled in Central's ROTC program. This large and highly organized department offers many unique chances for building character. It teaches discipline and leadership; poise of mind and body.

The cadets, in addition to grueling drills, marches, and inspection, perform many extra duties which are as indispensable as they are unnoticed. These include acting as guards at ball games, participating in commencement ceremonies, and marching in several parades throughout the year.

Headed by Master Sergeants Charles Tipton and T. A. Earhart, this program is something of which Centralites can be proud.

The Battalion Staff has mastered the art of leadership. Working with the sergeant instructors, they have guided Central's complex military organization through another successful year.

The Sponsor Officers bring a bit of glamour into Central's orderly military circles and lines. In addition to other activities, these girls take an active part in the Shield and Spear.

The Drum and Bugle Corps has fast become one of the most successful branches of ROTC. It is certainly one of the most popular. It is headed by Jack Frost, and composed of about twenty-five members who are entitled to wear a special card on their uniforms. Performing at different functions throughout the year, its thrilling military music and certain precision of movement have made it a proud and inspiring machine.

The Varsity Rifle Team has been one of the brightest spots in Central's overall competitive efforts. It has emerged as number one in St. Joseph by capturing the city championship match. At a match at Manhattan, Kansas, it took fourth place out of fifteen schools entered. At Joplin, Missouri, it was triumphant over thirteen of the sixteen schools entered. Individual members have won awards for outstanding shooting. These awards include the PMST Medal.

The Military Police are the unsung heroes of the school. They do a hard and tedious, but necessary, job. Membership in the organization is purely voluntary when it is formed at the first of every school year. It never fails to receive the services of a body of boys who never complain whether directing traffic in the parking lot for a football game or guarding various points of access. Hats off to them!

George L. Blackwell, Superintendent of Schools

What with an ever-increasing enrollment, a potential enrollment that threatens to swamp the present facilities, and more and more responsibility placed on the public schools for the success or failure of democracy, it is obvious that a school system does not just run itself. These are the problems facing Mr. George Blackwell, superintendent of the St. Joseph public schools since 1943.

Mr. Blackwell began his career in the field of education in 1931 when he became a teacher at Central High School. Four years later, he was advanced to the position of vice-principal. In 1938, he was appointed principal of Roosevelt Junior High School. He then became business manager of the school system in 1939.

Mr. Blackwell is a competent leader in the field of education—admired by his community and respected by his colleagues and teachers.

Educators Blaze Our Trail

BOARD OF EDUCATION—Back Row: George Blackwell, R. V. Blomfield, W. Fairleigh Enright, Mrs. John Wyeth, David

W. Hopkins. Front Row: Dwight Dannen, Mrs. Paul Knepper, E. R. Garvey.

"Chief" Markley Keeps Peace With Indians

Charged with the administrative responsibilities contained in the title "principal" is George L. Markley, who has held his position since 1957. It is Mr. Markley who holds the torch of higher education before the student of Central. He has held students in school when they wanted to drop; he has encouraged others to go to college; he has kept a well-prepared faculty; in short, he is "Mr. Central."

As principal he must co-ordinate the instructional and extracurricular activities of Central. He must constantly search for ideas to improve our school. He spends most of his summer planning a schedule of classes for the coming fall. Year around, he works to make Central a school which will produce educated students — the leaders of tomorrow.

Often it is said that the "students of today are the hope of tomorrow." In truth, the "educators of today are the hope of tomorrow." Wise and capable educators must instill in the minds of students wisdom and knowledge in order that they may live full and successful lives.

While we seldom take the opportunity to say, "Thank you, Mr. Markley, for what you do for Central," we appreciate his tireless efforts.

Mr. George L. Markley

Walter Halverson
Vice-Principal

Any account of the past year at Central would be incomplete if "the man behind the scenes" were not mentioned. This man "behind the scenes" is Walter Halverson, vice-principal.

The vice-principal's job is one of great importance to both the student body and the faculty. The duties ranging from attendance to school finance require time and patience. Supervision of building maintenance, discipline of students, and direction of the athletic program are among the responsibilities of the vice-principal.

Although his job is time consuming, Mr. Halverson is willing to talk to anyone who comes to him for help. He has been a beacon light in guiding many students to a better understanding of school life. Mr. Halverson is truly a great help to any student who is willing to recognize the fact that the vice-principal is here to help those who come to him for assistance. Centralites could ask for no better friend or for a harder working administrator.

Come and Be Counseled

An important person in any school is the Dean of Girls. The time-consuming duties of the Dean of Girls consist of checking on absentees, issuing lunch permits, orienting new students at Central and counseling girls on the diverse problems they bring to her.

In addition to her duties as Dean of Girls, Mrs. Graham teaches psychology and speech. She sponsors the Student Council, which involves supervising Dance Hall, chaperoning school dances, and dealing with the many curricular activities directed by the Council.

Mrs. Graham plays many roles for Central's girls: mother, confessor, counselor, disciplinarian, advisor, big sister, and most of all, friend—a friend who can provide a girl with Kleenex, a kind word, a pat on the back, a sympathetic ear, and when necessary, a firm reprimand.

Central's girls are fortunate to have Mrs. Dorothy Graham as Dean of Girls.

Dorothy Graham
Dean of Girls

Mrs. Camille Walton

Mrs. Juanita Brown

Mrs. Betty Wiles

Thirty students comprise the staff of office-assistants. Five students assist the paid staff each period by collecting absentee slips, issuing leave permits, running errands, and answering numerous telephone calls during the day.

In a school with 1376 students, 3 floors and a basement, 38 classrooms, and 40 incoming and countless outgoing telephone calls each day, the willing assistance of the students is essential to the smooth functioning of office routine.

Heading the office staff are: Mrs. Camille Walton, bookkeeper; Mrs. Juanita Brown, registrar, and Mrs. Betty Wiles, attendance clerk. It is Mrs. Walton's job to handle the school's finances. Mrs. Brown registers all new students and keeps all grade records. Mrs. Wiles has charge of student attendance records and compiles the daily absentee list. However, all these women are often called upon to serve "above and beyond the call of duty" as nurse, counselor, sympathizer, and friend.

Cabinet Members Authorize, Advise, Supervise

The Student Council serves as a link between students and faculty members. It gives the students the chance to voice their ideas and opinions. Comprised of elected members, student body officers, and a Cabinet appointed by the President, the Council holds its meetings every two weeks to discuss the problems and proposals of our school government. At each meeting the committees report the progress of activities for which the committee is responsible.

With the assistance and direction of the Council sponsors, Mrs. Dorothy Graham and Mr. Larry Hayes, the members, Cabinet, and officers are responsible for conducting the book exchange, running the student supply, and keeping the halls and campus clean. The Council also sponsors the noon-hour dance hall, which provides enjoyable recreation.

In addition to handling curricular functions of our school, the Student Council also sponsors many outside activities. Among these are Color Day, Homecoming, the All-School Dance, and the campaign nominations and elections in the spring.

Each year the Student Council holds a banquet and a picnic for the enjoyment of its members. This banquet takes the place of a regular school meeting. Reports of this meeting, as well as reports of all regular meetings, are given in Home Rooms.

Student Council members must have and maintain an "M" grade average and must have the ability both to lead and to serve. Meetings on parliamentary procedure and talks on how to give effective and interesting reports are held for new members so that they may become excellent representatives for the "people."

Freshmen . . .

FRESHMAN OFFICERS: Sue Ann Hubbard, Secretary; Paula Crea, President; Trudy Jackson, Treasurer; Gene Heggstad, Vice-President.

Class of '63

The freshmen must endeavor to follow the map of the ideals of Central High School. In so doing, they have often crossed rough country as they ever strive to equal the scholastic and extracurricular records set by their predecessors.

Students entering Central as freshmen are presented with a wide selection of elective subjects along with their required courses of mathematics, civics, English, and physical education. As Central's second freshman class to take part in an accelerated course, this year's freshmen have distinguished themselves by showing exceptional ability in achieving the goals and accepting the challenges the program offers them.

Sponsored by Mrs. Loma Beaumont and Mrs. Dorothy Coy, the Freshman Class has taken an active part in the Student Council, Hi-Y and Y-Teens, sports, and the ROTC. The freshmen also form what is commonly known as the "clean-up" committee, which is in charge of keeping Central's campus beautiful.

Freshmen who were the objects of trickery by the upper-classmen may rest safe in the knowledge that in a few years they, too, will be the pranksters with new freshmen at their mercy. Then they can supply some unfortunate freshmen with elevator tickets!

Central's world opens before their unbelieving eyes—a fantastic world of new texts and new teachers, a virtual panorama of subjects and activities and the fun of new friendships—from which the freshmen emerge breathless but ready for the challenge of the next three years at Central. These next years will prove the true worth of the Class of 1963.

Dear Danny,
I'm so happy to get to be a cheer leader with you this next year. I know we will have a blast at camp - you are a very sweet gal with personality plus lots of fun. Thanks a lot for being my friend

There's no turning back now! Two years have gone for the Sophomore Class—two years filled with new impressions and adjustments to high school life during which the class has already begun to make active contributions to Central.

During the past two years, the sophomores have integrated themselves into Central, being active in Student Council, Reserve Pep Squad, Glee Club, Mixed Choir, and other activities.

The students of '62 have also excelled scholastically. English and physical education played a major role in their schedules, but other subjects were equally important. Collecting insects and leaves for biology and solving geometry problems occupied a great amount of time.

Thus, half of their high school life has gone already, but there are still two more years to be filled with exciting events, new classes, and new friendships as the sophomores make the transition to the rank of upperclassmen.

New challenges and new experiences await them as they pass the midpoint of their high school careers; but all these years will be a time of growth and development into mature students and citizens of the future.

Class of '61

The Best yet

Dick Correll
P.S. See you next year as a SENIOR

Three-fourths of the job is done; one-fourth remains to be completed. In their three years at Central, the juniors have seen many changes and they themselves have made many ideas become realities in their striving to make Central a progressive school. Next year the class of '61 will take the lead in school affairs. As juniors, they served Central well in clubs, assemblies, and on various important committees throughout the year. And the junior athletes did not overlook their chances on the football field, the basketball court, and the cinder path. The junior class this year was under the sponsorship of Miss Nancy Adle and Mr. Roger Fisher.

Each year, the Junior Class takes complete charge of the prom: securing a band, planning a theme, making decorations, and addressing invitations to every junior and senior at Central. Under the leadership of the officers, the juniors of 1959-60 hope to make this occasion a memorable one for their guests, the seniors.

The juniors must say a sad "adieu" to U.S. history and junior English classes, but their senior year awaits them to be enjoyed to the fullest. New subjects must be mastered, and new activities added to the already full list. It will truly be "their" year, as leaders of the school, to uphold the spirit and traditions of Central High School.

Class of '60

The four relay stations are behind. A seemingly endless road lies ahead of the graduating class as they go forth, leaving indelible footprints on the halls of Central.

As they look back over their high school life, the Class of '60 will recall many highlights—their first registration in September of 1956, and their gradual adaptation to high school routine; the all-school dances; furious election campaigns; the scramble of the football games and noisy pep rallies.

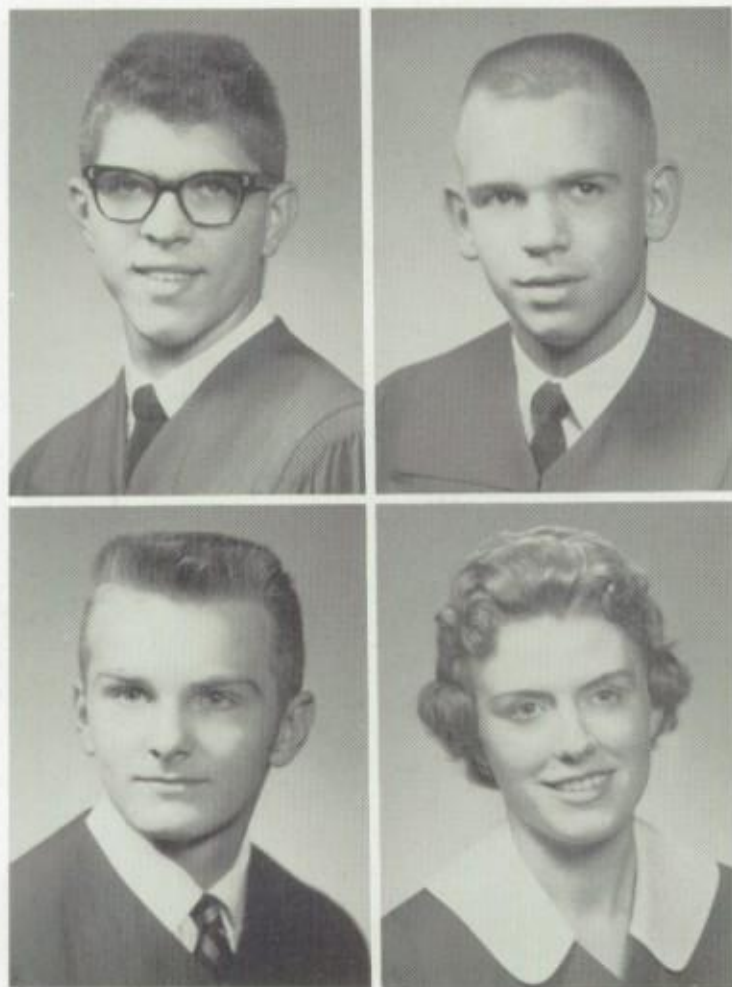

In order to raise funds for a class gift, the Senior Variety Show, "The Shack—It Was, It Is, It Will Be," was presented. The show, a student production, was based on the theme of past, present, and future years at Central. With the funds raised by the production, the senior class presented a well-deserved gift to Central.

As the seniors rode with the thought rider through their high school days, they encountered the trials of a higher learning. Now the journey into a new world begins.

The seniors are led by new scientific discoveries and modern inventions which prepare them to meet the challenge of every day life. Thus the seniors leave these portals ever mindful of the vital experiences they have gained through these opportunities which have enriched their lives.

In Memoriam

Early this year, prominent Centralite Eugene Nichols died after struggling almost a year and a half against cancer.

To all of us who knew Eugene, respected him, and loved him, the question of "why" comes to our minds. "Why" should a person so good-natured, so deserving, leave forever the people he knew and enjoyed being with? "Why" must we be without him, his radiant personality, his leadership, his companionship?

To question and doubt and misinterpret is only human, but let us try to read some meaning into so tragic a heavenly decision.

We agree that all of us have a purpose—some reason for life and reality. And once that purpose is fulfilled, we must surrender our position by death to other people with other purposes. What more desirable purpose could a person such as Eugene have than to be a good influence on the persons with whom he comes in contact? And none of us doubt that Eugene was both a desirable influence on everyone he met and a living testimonial to everyone that all is not meaningless after physical handicap and misfortune.

So let us try to realize through our grief that there is a reason for everything—even the death of a person so fine and noble as Eugene Nichols.

Dear Tana —
It's been fun knowing you this past year at Central. Remember at the start of the year when we used to talk about two cheerleaders and even two J.C. girls! I want to wish you the best of luck in your future years.

Much luck

Dear Tana,

One of the best and hardest working cheerleaders Central has. Best of luck in years to come. Guess we'll never forget the last 6 days in English. (Tests, tests, tests)

Dear Tana,

Well we have gone together now for about 1 yr. & 10 months. We've had our troubles but now I hope everything is OK. (at least for awhile anyway) I have really enjoyed going with you & I sincerely hope we can continue going together but on better terms than at lately. I think if we both try things will be alright. Tana, I've said it many times & I'll say it again, you are the nicest & sweetest girl I have ever known & you have the best personality if you just what to use it. I think the world of you & I hope we can keep going together for a long time to come. If not then I want to wish you the best of luck in everything you do or attempt.

Love you always,

Roger Bradley

Your boy friend forever (if you want)

Dear Tana:

This seems to be the boy friend page. I'm a boy, I hope a friend. The past year has brought me many pleasures, simply your very sincere friendship. Kindest regards as you enter your Senior year, much success & of course happiness. Your business has been sincerely appreciated & your weekly visits on Thursday gave those days a certain little something that has meant much to me. Sincerely
Orest

Dear Jana,

This year I'm going to get this signed no matter what! Gosh we've come a long way and it certainly doesn't seem like we'll be seniors. We've been such good friends from Bliss right on, & I hope even after we graduate we can continue our friendship. We had lots of fun even in the 8th grade. I'm so happy you've attained everything you have in high school. Being with you in cheerleading has been lots of fun. I never thought I'd make some of those games! In fact I wouldn't have made it to  $\frac{1}{2}$  of them if it hadn't been for you & Roger. Of course Bill took me some places too.

Thanks to both of them. Jana I don't think anyone could have been more deserving of head cheerleader than you. You've put everything into cheerleading, & it's a great honor for a great person. You & Roger make a good couple, and whatever you want is the important thing, so I hope you're happy no matter what happens. Any boy you go with is extremely lucky. We've really had a time with our boys. We've both been upset at the same time, & while that's no big help we considered suicide at the same time!
This will be our last year, & I hope it's a good one. Lots of luck in the future Jana. You'll succeed no matter what. I just hope Roger doesn't go completely insane. It'd be such a sad way to end it! Of course we can't forget the naughty little girl he told us about today (you know freckles) She'd die if she knew!

Luck always Jana

Love you,

Dear Tana,

I wish you good luck to the future to a very sweet job. I hope you have had as much fun as I in this past year and I hope you still have fun next year. I still hope you go with Bill G. instead of Roger but that's how the heart runs. If we move you can come up and visit me. You wasn't that sweet of me to invite you, but remember to come up when the ~~flower~~ grass is green and soft so that you will have a comfortable bed. Well since I haven't anything else to say good luck to you and all that but!

Dear Tara

I actually don't think you're a hot wire but a real sweet kid.
